As President of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada and honourary chair of the World Social Sciences Forum (WSS Forum), it is my sincere pleasure to welcome you to Montréal for this exceptional conference that will explore Social Transformations and the Digital Age. From digital literacy and engagement to applications and technologies for a more inclusive society, topics addressed at the WSSF over the next three days will contribute to a better understanding of the opportunities and challenges of the digital age in a global context.

The social sciences and humanities research community in Canada and around the world is clearly seized to contribute to these issues, by addressing the challenges of today and tomorrow, and providing new insights of intellectual, economic, social and cultural value to society.

I would like to thank the members of the programme committee and the organizing committee for their dedication and hard work in creating such an exemplary Forum, as well as to the sponsors and volunteers who have contributed their support to this major international event.

In addition to the outstanding array of panels and presentations taking place during the program, I invite you to visit the special Agora marketplace and to meet with leaders in the academic, industry, public and non-profit sectors who have set up kiosks and who will be presenting brief talks throughout the conference. Moreover, I encourage you to engage with others, both here in Montreal and around the world, by using the forum hashtag @WSSFMontreal.

Congratulations to everyone involved, and I wish you the very best for a successful conference.

Yours in research,

C'est pour moi un grand plaisir, en tant que président du Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines et Président d'Honneur du Forum mondial des sciences sociales, de vous accueillir à Montréal pour cette conférence exceptionnelle qui explorera les transformations sociales et l'ère numérique. De la culture numérique et la confrontation avec les nouvelles technologies aux applications et aux technologies pour une société plus inclusive, les sujets abordés lors du FMSS ces trois prochains jours contribueront à une meilleure compréhension des chances et défis de l'ère numérique, dans le contexte mondial.

Au Canada et partout dans le monde, les communautés de chercheurs en sciences humaines et sociales sont déterminées à s'attaquer à ces questions, à en relever les défis actuels et futurs et à offrir à nos sociétés de nouvelles perspectives intellectuelles, économiques, sociales et culturelles.

Je tiens à remercier les membres du comité de programme et du comité organisateur pour leur dévouement et leur travail acharné afin d'organiser ce Forum mondial exemplaire, ainsi qu'aux commanditaires et aux bénévoles qui apportèrent leur soutien à ce grand événement international.

En plus de la gamme exceptionnelle de panels et de présentations qui se tiendront durant le Forum mondial, je vous invite à visiter l'Agora pour y rencontrer les chefs de file de la recherche universitaire, de l'industrie, des secteurs publics et d'organismes sans but lucratif, qui ont installé des kiosques et où l'on présentera de brèves discussions tout au long de la conférence. Par ailleurs, je vous encourage à discuter en ligne, ici à Montréal et partout dans le monde, en utilisant le hashtag du forum @WSSFMontreal.

Félicitations à toutes les personnes qui contribuent d'une façon ou d'une autre à la tenue de ce Forum mondial des sciences sociales, et je vous souhaite une conférence des plus réussies.

Vôtre dans la recherche,

Dr. Chad Gaffield, PhD, FRSC
Président, Conseil de recherche en sciences humaines

Dear supporters of the Social Sciences, and of global Inter-Science collaboration,

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the ISSC's 2nd World Social Science Forum (WSSF), here at the Palais des Congrès in Montréal. This years' Forum has been organized together with a consortium of Canadian organizations under the leadership of the secretariat of the International Political Science Association (IPSA). We are grateful to Guy Lachapelle, Secretary General of IPSA, and other members of the WSSF Organizing Committee here in Montréal for making this event successful. We thank the Honorary Chair, Dr Chad Gaffield, President of SSHRC and a current member of the ISSC Executive Committee, for the vision and expertise he has brought to the Forum.

The theme of the Forum is timely, relevant and significant for human society now and in the future:

"Social Transformations and the Digital Age"

The International Social Science Council mobilizes the social sciences around global priority challenges, providing leadership and advocacy in social science, resource mobilization and capacity building. The ISSC is the main body representing social sciences at an international level. Its members include about seventy international professional associations and unions, regional and national social science academies and research councils, and other bodies with major interests in the social sciences.

Drawing on this membership base, we have convened in Montreal many of the world's leading scientists and practitioners to discuss and debate the relevance and implications of the Digital Age for human society, and for our disciplines, over three days of intense work. In doing so, we will be making comparisons on the theme of the conference across all global regions with strong representation from all the social science disciplines, the humanities and natural sciences and the relevant technological sciences.

This high quality program is prepared by the WSSF Scientific Program Committee whose members were nominated by ISSC members. The effort of the Committee, under the leadership of Professor Sally Wyatt will not go unnoticed. We also want to thank our member organization, the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, for seconding Professor Wyatt for this task.

We are particularly proud to announce that the ISSC has secured a travel grant scholarship fund of over $USD 100,000.00 to enable 40 early career social scientists from the global South to participate in the Forum. Thanks to the generous support of the Agence Universitaire de la Francophonie (AUF) and of the Indian Council of Social Science Research which made the participation of another dozen of participants possible.

On behalf of the ISSC, I wish to wholeheartedly thank all those who have generously contributed resources to the Forum, as listed further in this program. A particular word of thanks to those ISSC members and close partners listed below for their kind help and support in making this event successful:

Agence universitaire de la francophonie (AUF), Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS), Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA), Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), International Development Research Centre of Canada (IDRC), International Political Science Association (IPSA), International Union of Psychological Science (IUPSYS), Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA), the University of Bergen, Norway (UIB), World Association for Public Opinion Research (WAPOR), and of course Social Science Humanities Research Council of Canada (SSHRC) and Human and Social Sciences Research (HSRC) of South Africa.

Finally, I wish to thank the HSRC for becoming our organizing partner for the 2015 WSS Forum which will take place in Durban, South Africa, on the theme "Transforming Global Relations for a Just World." HSRC will brief the World Social Science Forum on the plans for the 2015 Forum during our closing ceremony on Tuesday.

The ISSC's mission is to advance the social sciences to suggest solutions to global priority challenges. We look forward to your contribution to the deliberations at this Forum. We also hope that you will find time to visit interesting sites here in Montreal.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Olive Shisana, Sc.D
President of the International Social Science Council
Chief Executive Officer, Human Sciences Research Council, South Africa

Aux amis des sciences sociales et aux acteurs de la collaboration scientifique globale.

En qualité de Présidente du Conseil international des sciences sociales (CISS), j'ai le grand plaisir de vous accueillir ici au Palais des Congrès de Montréal pour la deuxième édition du Forum mondial des sciences sociales (FMSS). Ce Forum mondial a été organisé en partenariat avec un consortium d'organisations canadiennes mené par le Secrétariat de l'AISP (Association internationale de science politique). Nous tenons à remercier Guy Lachapelle, Secrétaire Général de l'AISP, et tous les autres membres du Comité d'organisation locale pour l'excellent travail qu'ils ont réalisé afin d'assurer le succès de cet événement. Nous tenons également à remercier Chad Gaffield, Président du Conseil de rechereh en sciences humaines et sociales du Canada (CRSH) et membre du Comité exécutif du CISS pour la période 2011-2013, pour la vision et l'expertise qu'il a apportées en tant que Président d'honneur du Forum mondial des sciences sociales 2013.

Le thème du Forum de Montréal est d'une pertinence et d'une actualité incontestables, et comporte une signification importante pour les sociétés humaines d'aujourd'hui et de demain.

« Transformations sociales et ère numérique »

Dans ses diverses activités scientifiques, le Conseil international des sciences sociales réunit les principaux acteurs des sciences sociales autour des problèmes et enjeux globaux, assurant à ces dernières la place qui leur revient dans les grandes initiatives internationales de mobilisation des ressources et de développement de capacités. Le CISS est la principale organisation représentant les sciences sociales au niveau international. Il regroupe environ soixante-dix membres : associations et unions professionnelles, centres de recherches et académies régionales et nationales, ainsi que d'autres institutions.

Avec nos associations membres, nous avons invité à Montréal certains chercheurs et spécialistes éminents afin de discuter et débattre des effets de l'ère numérique sur les sociétés humaines et nos disciplines. Au cours de trois jours de travail intense, nous ferons des comparaisons régionales et interdisciplinaires, et discuterons aussi des apports venus des sciences humaines et naturelles, et des sciences de l'ingénierie.

Ce programme exceptionnel est le fruit du travail irréprochable accompli par le Comité scientifique du programme, dont les membres furent nominés par les membres du CISS. Cette année, le comité fut présidé par Sally Wyatt qui s'est assurée, avec grand succès, de la qualité des travaux présentés au Forum. Nous tenons également à remercier notre organisation membre, Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, pour avoir permis à Sally Wyatt d'accomplir cette énorme tâche.

Nous sommes particulièrement fiers d'annoncer que, suite à une collecte de fonds organisée par le CISS, plus de $100 000 ont pu être recueillis afin d'offrir des bourses à 40 chercheurs en sciences sociales en début de carrière venus des pays dits du Sud global. La générosité des organismes partenaires nous a permis de prendre en charge l'ensemble des coûts de tous les dossiers éligibles reçus pour ce programme. Grâce à l'appui généreux de l'Agence universitaire de la francophonie (AUF) et de l'Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), une douzaine d'autres participants reçoivent aussi une aide.

Nous tenons à remercier tous les organismes partenaires qui ont participé à financer le Forum mondial des sciences sociales ; vous trouverez une liste complète dans la suite du programme. Nous adressons un merci tout spécial pour leur aide et leur soutien dans la réalisation de cet important événement à :

L'Agence Universitaire de la Francophonie (AUF), l'Association internationale de science politique (AISP), Centre de recherche pour le développement international (CRDI) du Canada, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS), Conseil pour le développement de la recherche en sciences sociales en Afrique (CODESRIA), Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), le Gouvernement du Royaume de Suède, Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), International Union of Psychological Science (IUPSYS), University of Bergen (UiB) de Norvège, World Association for Public Opinion Research (WAPOR), et bien sûr le Conseil de recherche en sciences humaines et sociales du Canada (CRSH).

Enfin, nous tenons à remercier le Social Science Humanities Research Council (HSRC) d'Afrique du Sud pour avoir accepté de devenir notre partenaire dans l'organisation du prochain Forum mondial des sciences sociales, qui se tiendra à Durban, en Afrique du Sud, en 2015, sur le thème « Transforming Global Relations for a Just World ». Le HSRC présentera le Forum mondial 2015 lors de la Cérémonie de clôture, qui aura lieu le 15 octobre prochain.

La mission du CISS est de faire avancer les sciences sociales et de mettre en avant les solutions aux enjeux globaux qu'elles développent et proposent ; la tenue de Forums mondiaux est l'un des meilleurs moyens que nous ayons de réaliser cette mission.

En vous remerciant sincèrement pour votre présence, je vous souhaite de passer un moment à la fois productif et agréable au FMSS.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Olive Shisana, Sc.D
Présidente de Conseil international des sciences sociales
Directrice générale de Human Sciences Research Council, Afrique du Sud

The 2013 Forum addresses the very important theme of 'social transformations and the digital age', developments which affect how people organize their work, how they communicate with one another, what they do in their leisure time, and how politics, education, healthcare and the media are conducted. The widespread diffusion of digital technologies raises new ethical and moral considerations, and brings into sharp relief some very old ones, for example about what it is to be human, and what privacy means, for ourselves and for research participants. These developments also affect how social scientists do their work – not only are there novel objects and topics of research out there but also new ways of collecting, analyzing and representing data and results. All of these topics, and many more, are on the Forum programme.

The Forum is a unique opportunity for social scientists to meet across disciplines. In some areas, ICTs as we used to call them have long been a topic of research; others have realized more recently that social media and older manifestations of digital technologies are worthy of attention, as both object and method. Now that digital technologies reach so deeply (and of course sometimes not so deeply and not for everyone) into all areas of human activity, it is a good moment for social scientists to come together, to learn from other disciplines about how to make sense of these socio-technical changes in order to be able to act effectively.

Pulling together an event like this requires a lot of work by many different people. The members of the Scientific Programme Committee (see list on p. X) come from many disciplines, and are based around the world. They read, commented upon, and processed the huge volume of abstracts in good faith and with good humour, both of which are essential in interdisciplinary and intercultural communication. The IPSA (International Political Science Association) office in Montreal provided the local support, which means they did pretty much everything, including liaising with the venue and with all of the organizers, sponsors and participants. Yee Fun Wong, and her colleagues Roksolana Bobyk, Sarah Veilleux-Poulin, Eric Grève and Valerie Beech, have done an amazing job in keeping track of people, abstracts, money, the website, publicity and rooms, both hotel and conference. I am very grateful to Heide Hackmann, Executive Director of the International Social Science Council (ISSC), for her faith in me when she invited me to take on this challenging role. I hope she and everyone else are pleased with the results. Working with her colleague, Mathieu Denis, the ISSC Science Officer, was an unexpected pleasure. His intellectual insights and fantastic organizational skills were a constant source of inspiration and support. His contributions to the programme and its organization cannot be praised highly enough.

The effects of digital technologies on conference planning are hardly discussed within the scholarly literature about 'social transformations and the digital age'. Even though I am on the public record in expressing skepticism about some of the wilder, celebratory claims made about the transformative potential of digital technologies, even I can't imagine how we could have done this without email, databases, word processing, search engines, and all those mundane applications that many of us now take for granted.

The response to the call for papers was overwhelming, and thus there is a rich array of scholarship on offer during the Forum. Three wonderful plenary sessions are scheduled, reflecting different themes and approaches; one on each day thus also providing an occasion for all participants to gather together. During the other time slots, the great challenge will be to choose amongst the fascinating array of scholarship on offer so we will all have to make difficult choices between the many sessions, but there is much to stimulate our intellectual curiosity and to provoke discussion and debate about important challenges facing society.

Sally Wyatt
Chair of the Scientific Programme Committee,
Amsterdam, August 2013

A wordle of the call for papers:

Le Forum 2013 aborde un thème d'une grande importance : Transformations sociales et ère numérique, et traite des développements qui affectent la façon dont les gens organisent leur travail, comment ils communiquent entre eux, ce qu'ils font dans leur temps de loisir, et comment la politique, l'éducation, la santé et les médias s'en trouvent modifiés. La vaste diffusion des technologies numériques soulève de nouveaux problèmes d'ordres éthique et moral, mais en réactualise aussi de très anciens, tels la notion d'être humain ou encore la définition de la vie privée, du point de vue des personnes ou de celui de la recherche. Ces développements affectent également les méthodes de travail des chercheurs en sciences sociales, ils ouvrent la voie à de nouveaux champs d'étude et transforment la façon dont nous recueillons, analysons et présentons les données et les résultats.

Le Forum mondial est une occasion unique d'échanges entre chercheurs des différentes disciplines des sciences sociales. Ce qu'on appelle les TIC (technologies de l'information et de la communication) sont depuis longtemps un objet d'étude ; mais plus récemment on a vu des chercheurs de diverses disciplines se tourner vers les pratiques associées aux réseaux sociaux et 'd'autres technologies plus anciennes. Les nouvelles technologies ont infiltré pratiquement tous les aspects de l'activité humaine (à des degrés variables certes et avec des inégalités évidentes). Il semble donc que le moment soit opportun pour que les chercheurs en sciences sociales de se retrouver afin de débattre, apprendre les uns des autres et tente de faire le point sur des solutions possibles face aux problèmes soulevés par ces changement sociaux et technologiques.

Mettre en œuvre un tel événement requiert un travail considérable de la part de nombreuses personnes. Les membres du Comité Scientifique du Programme (voir liste p. X) sont issus de multiples disciplines et proviennent de différentes régions du monde. Ils et elles ont consciencieusement lu et annoté une quantité considérable de propositions de contribution, faisant preuve d'esprit et de bonne humeur, ce qui est essentiel dans toute entreprise interdisciplinaire et interculturelle. Le personnel de l'AISP (Association internationale de sciences politique) a assuré l'organisation locale de l'événement, agissant comme interlocuteur avec le Palais des Congrès, ainsi qu' avec les différents organismes partenaires, les sponsors et les participants. Yee Fun Wong et ses collègues Roksolana Bobyk, Sarah Veilleux-Poulin, Eric Grève et Valerie Beech ont fait un travail exemplaire sur le suivi des participants, des aspects financiers et publicitaires, ainsi que sur la logistique du Forum dans son ensemble. Je tiens à exprimer ma gratitude envers Heide Hackmann, Directrice exécutive du Conseil International des sciences sociales (CISS), pour la confiance qu'elle m'a accordée en m'invitant à relever ce défi. J'espère qu'elle et toutes les autres personnes concernées sont satisfaites du résultat. Ce fut un plaisir inattendu de collaborer avec son collègue Mathieu Denis, Responsable scientifique au CISS. Ses idées, sa sagacité et son prodigieux sens de l'organisation furent une source constante d'inspiration et d'encouragement. Ses contributions à la mise sur pied du programme ne peuvent être louées assez fortement.

Les effets des technologies numériques sur la planification d'une conférence internationale semblent échapper jusqu'à présent à la littérature existante sur le thème des « Transformations sociales et ère numérique ».

Bien qu'ayant parfois exprimé publiquement mon scepticisme quant à certaines des théories les plus élogieuses du potentiel transformateur des technologies numériques, je ne peux imaginer comment nous aurions organisé un tel Forum mondial sans courrier électronique, bases de données, traitement de texte et moteurs de recherche ; autant d'outils désormais banals et que beaucoup considèrent aujourd'hui comme étant acquis.

L'appel à contributions de cette année a suscité un intérêt exceptionnel, ce qui nous permet de vous présenter au Forum mondial un éventail de contributions très riches. Trois séances plénières de haut niveau sont au programme, reflétant divers thèmes et approches ; une par jour, créant ainsi un temps quotidien au cours duquel tous les participants se réuniront. En ce qui concerne les autres créneaux horaires, le défi pour chacun sera de faire son choix dans un programme présentant le travail des chercheurs les plus éminents de leur champ et discipline. Une chose est sûre : nous ne manquerons pas d'occasions pour stimuler notre curiosité intellectuelle et provoquer discussions et débats sur les défis les plus importants auxquels font face les sociétés contemporaines.

Sally Wyatt
Présidente du Comité scientifique du programme
Amsterdam, Août 2013

Just over two years ago, the International Social Science Council decided to hold its second World Social Science Forum in Montreal. Our research councils, universities and researchers were excited at the idea of coming together to reflect on issues related to the development of new technologies and their impact on scientific research and on the day-to-day lives of citizens. It should as no surprise, then, that IPSA was keen on collaborating on the organization of this event.

In this new century, the relevance of the human and social sciences and their contribution to the development of societies are constantly being called into question. In the aftermath of the Second World War, our international associations were created with the goal of promoting dialogue between peoples and fostering universal access to education and knowledge in all countries. This humanistic thrust also sparked debates on ideas, which in turn gave rise to major social changes. Today, as we set the course for our new century, a well-intentioned populism has surfaced, and many have begun to question the usefulness of political science as a tool for ending conflict or simply inciting decision-makers to respond to demands from citizens and improve governance in our states. In recent years, new means of communication have emerged, not least the Internet and smartphones. These tools have not only transformed our way of life, but they have also changed the way we apprehend reality and see the world. What's more, they have altered our value systems while giving the impression of greater equality among citizens. Some believed that the Internet would serve as an exemplary democratization tool while providing free access to all the information available on the Web. Quickly, though, we have been forced to realize that some data are not necessarily available to everyone, particularly in the states of the Global South, once again leading to certain inequalities.

For IPSA, the second World Social Science Forum therefore represents a unique opportunity to measure the reflections of political scientists against those of colleagues from other disciplines in the social and human sciences.

I hope you enjoy a fruitful discussion and debate!

Guy Lachapelle
Secretary General of IPSA

Il y a un peu plus de deux ans, le Conseil international des sciences sociales décidait de tenir son deuxième Forum mondial des sciences sociales à Montréal. Nos conseils de recherche, universités et chercheurs étaient fort enthousiastes à l'idée d'avoir une réflexion globale sur les enjeux liés au développement des nouvelles technologies non seulement sur la recherche scientifique, mais aussi sur la vie quotidienne des citoyens. C'est donc avec enthousiasme que l'AISP a accepté de collaborer à l'organisation de cet événement.

En ce début de siècle, les sciences humaines et sociales sont constamment questionnées sur leur pertinence et sur leur contribution au développement des sociétés. Au lendemain de la Seconde Guerre mondiale, nos associations internationales furent créées dans le but de faciliter le dialogue entre peuples et de favoriser l'émergence dans tous les pays de systèmes d'éducation permettant de rendre l'accès à la connaissance plus universelle. Dans cet élan d'humanisme, les débats d'idées furent au cœur de changements sociaux majeurs. Aujourd'hui, en ce début de siècle, alors qu'un certain populisme de bon aloi refait surface, plusieurs s'interrogent par exemple sur l'utilité de la science politique comme outil pour mettre fin à certains conflits ou simplement pour favoriser l'écoute des décideurs face aux demandes citoyennes et améliorer la gouvernance de nos états. Au cours des dernières années, de nouveaux véhicules de communication sont apparus : Internet, téléphones intelligents, etc. Non seulement ont-ils bouleversé nos modes de vie mais également notre appréhension du réel, notre façon de voir le monde. Ces nouveaux outils transforment aussi nos schèmes de valeurs tout en donnant l'impression d'une plus grande égalité citoyenne. Certains croyaient qu'internet serait un outil de démocratisation exemplaire en donnant à tous un libre accès à toutes les informations disponibles sur la toile. Mais on a rapidement compris que certaines données n'étaient pas nécessairement accessibles à tous, en particulier dans les États du sud, créant une fois de plus certaines inégalités.

Le 2ème Forum des sciences sociales sera donc pour l'AISP un moment unique pour confronter les réflexions des politologues avec celles des collègues des autres disciplines en sciences humaines et sociales.

Bonne réflexion!

Guy Lachapelle
Secrétaire général de l'AISP

About ISSC

ISSC – INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE COUNCIL
SOCIAL SCIENCE KNOWLEDGE FOR GLOBAL PRIORITY PROBLEMS

Rapidly changing global realities drive the ever-growing need for social science knowledge that can help us better understand and respond to current global challenges: social, cultural, economic, political and environmental. The ISSC aims to increase the production and use of social, behavioural and economic science knowledge to help tackle these challenges. Drawing on the expertise and knowledge of our member organisations, we seek to mobilise the international social science community to help societies develop effective, equitable, sustainable responses and solutions.

The International Social Science Council is the primary body representing social, economic, and behavioral sciences at an international level. With a broad disciplinary spread across the social sciences, members include international professional associations and unions, regional and national social science academies and research councils, universities and research institutes with interests in the social sciences. The ISSC secretariat is based at UNESCO, in Paris, France.

À propos du CISS

LE CONSEIL INTERNATIONAL DES SCIENCES SOCIALES (CISS)
LES SCIENCES SOCIALES RÉPONDENT AUX ENJEUX GLOBAUX

Le savoir développé par les sciences sociales est aujourd'hui indispensable et son rôle ne pourra que s'intensifier devant l'émergence de nouvelles réalités globales, sociales, culturelles, économiques, politiques et environnementales. Car ces dernières accroissent le besoin d'études et théories sociales, particulièrement aptes à comprendre et répondre à des défis qui sont sociaux. C'est dans ce contexte que le CISS œuvre pour que les sciences sociales continuent d'évoluer pour répondre aux grands défis du temps. Nous faisons la promotion active du dialogue entre les disciplines et champs scientifiques, créons des lieux de rencontre entre la recherche et les développements sociaux et tâchons de faciliter la collaboration entre recherche sociale et processus de décision politique.

L'émergence de nouvelles réalités globales accroissent le besoin d'études et théories sociales, car elles sont particulièrement aptes à comprendre et répondre aux défis sociaux, culturels, économiques, politiques et environnementaux actuels.

C'est dans ce contexte que le CISS œuvre pour que les sciences sociales s'ouvrent aux grands défis de notre temps. Nous faisons la promotion active du dialogue entre les disciplines et champs scientifiques, créons des lieux de rencontre entre la recherche et les développements sociaux et tâchons de faciliter la collaboration entre recherche sociale et processus de décision politique.

Le CISS est le principal organisme représentant les sciences sociales, économiques et comportementales à l'échelle internationale.

Fondé en 1952 par l'UNESCO, le CISS est aujourd'hui une organisation non-gouvernementale indépendante, regroupant un grand nombre d'organisations des sciences sociales, tels que les associations professionnelles internationales, régionales et nationales, les académies des sciences sociales, les conseils de recherche ainsi que d'autres organisations, instituts et fondations oeuvrant dans le domaine des sciences sociales.

What do we do?

- Provide a voice and networking platform for member organisations and co-sponsored programmes
- Identify and set social science priorities and agendas
- Advocate for trans-disciplinary social science research
- Shape international science policy and ensure it includes a social science framing
- Build capacity to ensure international collaboration and future generations of social science leaders
- Connect partner and member organisations and foster communities of practice
- Share information about, and facilitate access to, social science knowledge, expertise, and resources around the world

World Social Science Forum

The WSS Forum is a platform where inter-disciplinary researchers, practitioners, and policymakers can network, debate, and discuss important global issues in the social sciences. The first forum in 2009 took place in Bergen, Norway with the title: 'One planet – worlds apart'.

World Social Science Report

Co-published with UNESCO, the WSS Report highlights the importance of social science knowledge and research in addressing critical global challenges, such as climate change. The 2013 report, on changing global environments, will be presented at the forum in Montreal in October 2013. The 2010 report focused on 'knowledge divides'.

World Social Science Fellows programme

The Fellows Programme convenes cross-disciplinary, cross-regional workshops for outstanding early-career social scientists to diagnose and design innovative research projects on global priority problems. The latest workshop, in March 2013 was in Quito, Ecuador with 20 social scientists taking part from around the world.

World Social Science Prizes

During Special Events held on Monday, 14 October, 2013, the ISSC will award three prestigious international prizes:

• Stein Rokkan Prize for Comparative Social Science Research 2012 and 2013

• Mattei Dogan Prize for Excellence in Interdisciplinary Research 2013

Stein Rokkan Prize for Comparative Social Science Research

The Stein Rokkan Prize for Comparative Social Science Research was first awarded in 1981 in honour of Stein Rokkan (1921-1979), President of the International Social Science Council from 1973 to 1977. The Prize is awarded for very substantial and original contributions in comparative social science research. Submissions can be either an unpublished manuscript of book length, or a printed book, or collected works published no more than two years before the award year. Since 2008, and thanks to the generous support of the University of Bergen, where Stein Rokkan was professor of Comparative Politics, the Stein Rokkan Prize amounts to €5000 and is awarded on an annual basis and is is presented jointly with the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR).

2013 - Dorothee Bohle & Bela Greskovits

The Jury for the 2013 Stein Rokkan Prize for Comparative Social Science Research has awarded the prize to Dorothee Bohle and Bela Greskovits, for their book entitled "Capitalist Diversity on Europe's Periphery" (Cornell University Press 2012).

Dorothee Bohle is Professor of Political Science at Central European University, Budapest. She specialises in the comparative political economy of Eastern Europe, with a focus on welfare regimes, industrial relations and tiny states. Béla Greskovits is Professor of International Relations and European Studies at Central European University. His research interests are in social movements and protest, and the political economy of policy reform and transnational integration in Eastern Europe.

In "Capitalist Diversity on Europe's Periphery", the two authors trace the form that capitalism took in East European countries, the assets and liabilities left behind by socialism, the transformational strategies embraced by political and technocratic elites, and the influence of transnational actors and institutions. They also evaluate the impact of three regional shocks: the recession of the early 1990s, the rolling global financial crisis that started in July 1997, and the political shocks that attended EU enlargement in 2004.

2012 - Pepper D. Culpepper

The winner of the XVIIth Stein Rokkan Price for Comparative Social Research (2012) is Professor Pepper D. Culpepper from the European University Institute's Department of Political and Social Sciences.

In his book on "Quiet Politics and Business Power" (Cambridge University Press 2010), Culpepper takes issue with Abraham Lincoln's view of the democratic process. He argues that open contestation, political conflict, compromise and accountability of politicians applies only to a smaller fraction of all major political decisions, above all to those issues which are marked by high political salience, a predominance of formal institutions — defined as rules established in the legislative arena by state actors — and moderate or low levels of complexity.

Culpepper's study builds empirical and theoretical bridges to the fields of business administration, to law and to comparative political economy more generally. "Quiet Politics and Business Power" is a major contribution to the study of political and economic institutions, processes and outcomes; and a deserving winner of the prize.

Mattei Dogan Prize for Excellence in Interdisciplinary Research

The Mattei Dogan Prize for Excellence in Interdisciplinary Research was established in 2005 to distinguish social scientists whose work has advanced knowledge in the social sciences by crossing disciplinary boundaries and recombining different specialised subject fields in their research or writing. The first Prize was awarded to David E. Apter, Professor Emeritus of Comparative Political and Social Development, Yale University.

 - The amount of the prize is US$5000.

2013 – Amitrajeet A. Batabyal

Amit Batabyal has been the Arthur J. Gosnell Professor of Economics at the Rochester Institute of Technology since 2000. He is the author of 7 books (mostly in the fields of ecological economics and invasive species management), over 180 papers in international prestigious scientific journals, and the recipient of over 20 awards and honours throughout his career. The members of the jury were particularly sensitive to the quality and diversity of the work he has already accomplished at this stage of his career.

Prix du Conseil international des sciences sociales

Dans le cadre des évènements spéciaux du lundi 14 octobre 2013, le Conseil International des Sciences Sociales remettra trois prix internationaux prestigieux.

• Les Prix Stein Rokkan 2012 et 2013 en recherche comparative en sciences sociales

• Le Prix Mattei Dogan 2013 pour l'excellence en recherche interdisciplinaire

Le prix Stein Rokkan en recherche comparative en sciences sociales

Le prix Stein Rokkan en recherche comparative en sciences sociales fut décerné pour la première fois en 1981 en l'honneur de Stein Rokkan (1921-1979), président du Conseil international des sciences sociales de 1973 à 1977. Le prix récompense les auteurs de contributions originales et substantielles dans le domaine de la recherche en sciences sociales. Depuis 2008, et grâce à la généreuse contribution de l'Université de Bergen, où Stein Rokkan était professeur de politiques comparées, le prix Stein Rokkan offre une bourse de € 5,000 remise sur une base annuelle, et qui est présentée conjointement avec le European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR).

2013 - Dorothee Bohle & Bela Greskovits

Le jury du Prix Stein Rokkan en recherche comparative en sciences sociales a décerné le prix 2013 à Dorothee Bohle et Bela Greskovits, pour leur livre intitulé "Capitalist Diversity on Europe's Periphery" (Cornell University Press 2012).

Dorothee Bohle est professeure de sciences politiques à l'Université d'Europe centrale à Budapest. Elle se spécialise dans l'économie politique comparée en Europe de l'Est, avec un accent sur les régimes de protection sociale, les relations industrielles et les petits Etats. Béla Greskovits est professeur de relations internationales et d'études européennes à l'Université d'Europe centrale. Ses intérêts de recherche portent sur les mouvements sociaux et la contestation sociale, et l'économie de la réforme politique et de l'intégration transnationale en Europe de l'Est.

Dans "Capitalist Diversity on Europe's Periphery", les deux auteurs retracent la forme que le capitalisme a pris dans les pays d'Europe orientale, les atouts et les responsabilités laissés par le socialisme, les stratégies transformationnelles embrassées par les élites politiques et technocratiques, et l'influence des acteurs et des institutions transnationales. Ils évaluent également l'impact de trois chocs régionaux: la récession du début des années 1990, la crise financière mondiale qui a débuté en juillet 1997 et les chocs politiques qui ont accompagné l'élargissement de l'UE en 2004.

2012 - Pepper D. Culpepper

Le jury du Prix Stein Rokkan en recherche comparative en sciences sociales a décerné le prix 2012 au professeur Pepper D. Culpepper du département de sciences politiques et sociales de l'Institut universitaire européen.

Dans son livre "Quiet Politics and Business Power" (Cambridge University Press 2010), Culpepper s'oppose au point de vue d'Abraham Lincoln sur le processus démocratique. Il soutient que la contestation ouverte, les conflits politiques, les compromis et les responsabilités des politiciens s'appliquent uniquement à une fraction minime de toutes les grandes décisions politiques, et surtout aux questions d'une saillance politique élevée, une prédominance des institutions formelles – définies comme règles établies dans le domaine législatif par des acteurs étatiques - et des niveaux modérés ou faibles de complexité. Son livre reprend un thème majeur de l'œuvre de Stein Rokkan: à savoir le rôle des intérêts économiques dans la politique démocratique.

L'ouvrage du Dr. Culpepper est étroitement liée à la perspicacité de Rokkan dans son analyse de l'opposition politique en Norvège, se résumant par la formule suivante« les votes comptent, mais les ressources décident "Quiet Politics and Business Power" soulève une problématique majeure présente dans toutes les démocraties, et souvent négligés par les politiques et politologues sur les conflits politiques évidents, les coalitions partisanes et le débat public. Il contribue à la théorie démocratique empirique, en redirigeant l'attention sur l'élaboration des politiques dans des domaines moins saillants, mais extrêmement importants.

En outre, l'étude de Culpepper construit des ponts empiriques et théoriques pour les domaines de l'administration des affaires, et du droit, en passant par l'économie politique comparative en général. "Quiet Politics and Business Power" est une contribution majeure à l'étude des institutions politiques et économiques, de leurs processus et de leurs résultats, et constitue un ouvrage vainqueur méritant du prix.

Le prix Mattei Dogan pour l'excellence en recherche interdisciplinaire

Le prix Mattei Dogan pour l'excellence en recherche interdisciplinaire fut établi en 2005 pour récompenser le travail de chercheurs qui ont fait avancer le savoir en sciences sociales en faisant fi des frontières disciplinaires et en combinant différentes spécialisations dans leur champ de recherche ou d'écriture. Le premier prix Mattei Dogan fut remis à David E. Apter, professeur émérite en politiques comparées et développement social de l'Université Yale. La bourse d'USD $ 5,000 est généreusement commanditée par la Fondation Mattei Dogan.

2013 - Amitrajeet A. Batabyal

Amit Batabyal est le Arthur J. Gosnell Professor of Economics au Rochester Institute of Technology depuis 2000. Il est l'auteur de sept ouvrages (touchant particulièrement aux domaines de l'économie écologique et la gestion des espèces invasives), plus de 180 contributions dans des journaux scientifiques prestigieux, et le récipiendaire de plus de 20 prix et distinctions tout au long de sa carrière.

Practical Info

Canada

Canada is a diverse North American country made out of 10 provinces and 3 territories. Located in the northern part of the continent, it extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and is the second largest country in the world. It shares the world's biggest border with the United States, totalling 8,900 kilometers (which includes both land and shared waterways), as well as two maritime boundaries with the autonomous Danish territory of Greenland and the autonomous French overseas islands of Saint Pierre and Miquelon. Canada is a federal state governed as a parliamentary democracy and a constitutional monarchy, with Queen Elizabeth II acting as head of state. Canada has a population of 35 million and two official languages, English and French.

Montréal

With a population of about 1.7 million (or over 3.8 million if you include the greater metropolitan area), Montreal is the largest city in the province of Quebec and the third most populated city in Canada. With its French roots, British heritage and North American upbringing, Montréal offers Old World flair mixed with New World energy, 17th-century colonial architecture sharing the same skyline with sleek high-rises, plus an eclectic blend of cultural influences from all over the world. From historic Old Montréal to the trendy Plateau to family-friendly HoMa, charming Little Italy and a safe, always happening downtown core, there's lots to explore and lots of ways to get up close and personal with the locals, all within safe walking distance.

Canadian Currency

Canadian currency is the Canadian dollar, which is divided into 100 cents. There are 5, 10, 20, 50 and 100 dollar bills. Smaller coins are 5, 10, and 25 cent pieces. Banking and credit cards are also welcome almost everywhere. Cash in foreign currency is not generally accepted.

Communications

INTERNET

Most hotels offer access to Wi-Fi in their rooms or through their Business Centers. Certain areas of the city, like the Old Port offer free Wi-Fi access. While you are on the Promenade (see map of coverage area), simply tell your device to connect to the network called "Vieux-Port de Montréal". Next, open your Web browser. A connection page will open. Click "Connect" and you're done! You will now be able to surf the Web.

Ile Sans Fil, a non-profit organization, provides free internet access in more than 250 public placesin the city of Montreal. To view a complete list of libraries, bistros, cafés, parks and other places serviced by Ile Sans Fil, please visit http://www.ilesansfil.org/welcome/

Most coffee shops and restaurants offer their patrons free internet access. Montreal is also well-provided for with internet cafés and there are several throughout the city.

INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL PHONE CALLS

The country code of Canada is +1 and the local area code for Montreal is 514. To call Montreal from abroad, dial 00 1 514 followed by the local number. International phone cards with cheap rates can be found at a variety of corner stores in Montreal. Pay phones accept phone cards, credit cards and change.

Driving

Québec uses the metric system, so speeds are indicated in kilometres (100 km/h = 62 mph) and gas is sold in litres (3 3/4 litres = 1 US gallon). Rights on reds are strictly prohibited on the island of Montréal. Use a hand-held cell phone that does not have a hands-free function in prohibited while driving. Parking in the city centre is not difficult; there are many of paid parking lots and meter parking. Some parking meters have been replaced by automatic pay stations. Numbered blue and white signs indicate where these parking spaces are available.

Electricity

Electrical voltage in Canada is 110-120 volts, 60 Hertz (cycles per second). Plugs have two flat prongs. Multi-voltage appliances (laptops, etc) will require a plug adapter. For appliances of 220-240V, a step-up transformer will be needed in addition to the adapter.

Exchange

Exchange facilities are available at Trudeau Airport, most banks and hotels. The exchange rate is roughly $1.00 USD = $1.05 CAD.

Gastronomy

As the city with the largest number of restaurants per capita in North America, chances are that you're going to find just the region or type of food you crave in Montréal – and it's going to be delicious! Ingenuity is the main ingredient in a unique cuisine that deftly mixes invention with tradition. The result? An inspired blend of local influences, daring world flavours and European heritage.

Health

It is strongly recommended that visitors get their own medical insurance program to cover those expenses during their stay.

Information pratique

Canada

Le Canada est un pays d'Amérique du Nord diversifié et constitué de 10 provinces et de 3 territoires. Situé dans la partie nord du continent, il s'étend de l'Atlantique au Pacifique, et est le deuxième plus grand pays du monde. Il partage avec les Etats-Unis la plus grande frontière du monde, totalisant 8900 km (ce qui inclut à la fois la terre et les voies navigables communes), ainsi que deux frontières maritimes avec le territoire danois autonome du Groenland et les îles d'outre-mer autonomes de Saint-Pierre-et-Miquelon. Le Canada est un État fédéral gouverné comme une démocratie parlementaire et une monarchie constitutionnelle, avec la Reine Elizabeth II agissant comme chef de l'Etat. Le Canada a une population de 35 millions et possède deux langues officielles, l'anglais et le français.

Montréal

Avec une population d'environ 1,7 millions (ou de plus de 3,8 millions si on inclut la grande région métropolitaine), Montréal est la plus grande ville de la province de Québec et la troisième ville la plus peuplée au Canada. Avec ses racines françaises, son héritage britannique et son éducation en Amérique du Nord, Montréal offre une fusion du flair du Vieux-Monde assorti de l'énergie du Nouveau-Monde, où l'architecture coloniale du 17e siècle partage le même horizon avec d'élégants gratte-ciel, et un mélange éclectique d'influences culturelles de partout dans le monde. Du Vieux-Montréal au Plateau branché jusqu'au quartier familial HoMa, de la charmante Petite Italie en passant par un centre-ville constamment animé, il y a beaucoup à explorer et de nombreuses façons de faire la connaissance des gens du pays, le tout dans une ville sécuritaire et propice aux déplacements à pied.

Bureaux de change

Des bureaux de change sont disponibles à l'aéroport Trudeau, à la plupart des banques et des hôtels. Le taux de change est d'environ 1,00 $ US = 1,05 $ CAN.

Communications

La plupart des hôtels offrent un accès à une connexion Wi-Fi dans les chambres ou dans leurs centres d'affaires. Certaines zones de la ville, comme le Vieux-Port, offrent une connexion Wi-Fi gratuite. Pendant que vous êtes sur la Promenade (voir la carte des zones de couverture), il suffit de dire à votre appareil de se connecter au réseau appelé "Vieux-Port de Montréal". Ensuite, ouvrez votre navigateur Web. Une page de connexion s'ouvre. Cliquez sur "Connecter" et vous avez terminé! Vous allez maintenant être en mesure de naviguer sur le Web.

Ile Sans Fil, une organisation à but non lucratif, offre un accès gratuit à Internet dans plus de 250 lieux publics de la ville de Montréal. Pour voir une liste complète des bibliothèques, des bistros, cafés, parcs et autres lieux desservis par Ile Sans Fil, veuillez visitez http://www.ilesansfil.org/utiliser/

La plupart des cafés et restaurants offrent à leurs clients un accès Internet gratuit. Il y a également plusieurs cafés Internet situés aux quatre coins de la ville.

APPELS INTERNATIONAUX ET NATIONAUX

Le code de pays du Canada est +1 et l'indicatif régional de Montréal est 514. Pour appeler de l'étranger à Montréal, veuillez composer le 00 1 514 suivi du numéro local. Des cartes téléphoniques internationales peuvent être trouvées à bon prix dans une variété de dépanneurs à Montréal. Les téléphones payants acceptent les cartes téléphoniques, les cartes de crédit et la monnaie.

Conduire

Québec utilise le système métrique ; les vitesses sont donc indiquées en kilomètres (100 Km / h = 62 mph) et le gaz est vendu au litre (3 3/4 litres = 1 gallon US). Les virages à droite sur une lumière rouge sont strictement interdits sur l'île de Montréal. Utiliser un téléphone cellulaire tenu à la main qui n'a pas de fonction mains-libres est interdit pendant la conduite. Se stationner au centre-ville n'est pas difficile, il y a beaucoup de terrains de stationnement payants et de parcomètres. Certains parcomètres ont été remplacés par des caisses automatiques. Des panneaux bleus et blancs numérotés indiquent où ces espaces de stationnement sont disponibles.

Devise canadienne

La devise canadienne est le dollar canadien, qui se divise en 100 cents. Les coupures de billets se font en 5, 10, 20, 50 et 100 dollars. Les plus petites pièces sont de 5, 10, et 25 cents. Les cartes bancaires et les cartes de crédit sont également acceptées à peu près partout. L'argent comptant en devises étrangères n'est généralement pas accepté.

Eau

L'eau courante à Montréal est potable et peut être bue sans aucun risque.

Électricité

La tension électrique au Canada est de 110-120 volts, 60 hertz (cycles par seconde). Les prises ont deux fiches plates. Les appareils multi-tension (ordinateurs portables, etc.) auront besoin d'un adaptateur. Pour les appareils de 220-240V, un transformateur élévateur de tension sera nécessaire en plus de l'adaptateur.

Fuseau horaire

Montréal passe à l'heure avancée de l'Est (fuseau horaire d'été) le deuxième dimanche de mars et revient à l'heure normale de l'Est (fuseaux horaires d'hiver) le premier dimanche de novembre. La différence de temps entre le temps Montréal et Greenwich Mean Time est inférieure à 5 heures en hiver.

Gastronomie

Montréal est la ville nord-américaine où l'on trouve le plus grand nombre de restaurants par habitant. La probabilité de trouver un établissement correspondant à ses envies est non seulement garantie, mais il y a aussi fort à parier que ses attentes soient comblées. La métropole est reconnue pour sa créativité et, à cet égard, les chefs de la scène culinaire locale ont l'art de se démarquer. Savoir-faire et imagination permettent à ces artistes de créer une gastronomie unique se traduisant par un heureux mariage entre tradition et innovation, cuisine française classique et influences régionales ou multiethniques.

Heures d'ouverture

La plupart des magasins sont ouverts du lundi au mercredi de 9 h-18h, du jeudi au vendredi de 9h-21h et le samedi et dimanche de 10h-17h. Ils sont habituellement fermés les jours fériés - et le 2 Janvier dans la majorité des cas - mais certains établissements (supermarchés, succursales de la SAQ, etc.) peuvent encore être ouverts.

Santé

Il est fortement recommandé que les visiteurs se dotent d'une assurance médicale, de manière à couvrir ces dépenses lors de leur séjour.

Sécurité

Bien que Montréal soit une ville sécuritaire pour les étrangers, nous vous recommandons d'utiliser le bon sens pour éviter les rencontres malheureuses. Veuillez noter que le numéro d'urgence de la police est le 911.

Taxes et pourboires

Deux taxes sont applicables au Québec: une taxe fédérale sur les produits et services (TPS) de 5% et une taxe provinciale du Québec (TVQ) de 9,975%. Une taxe de séjour de 3,5% est également en vigueur à Montréal. Il est d'usage de donner un pourboire aux serveurs de restaurant. Les chauffeurs de taxi et les coiffeurs, reçoivent aussi normalement un pourboire de 15%. Les porteurs, portiers, etc. reçoivent généralement au moins 2 $ par valise ou par service rendu. Les cafés et comptoirs alimentaires ont souvent une tasse de pointe à côté de la caisse enregistreuse ; la monnaie est toujours appréciée.

Température

La température moyenne au mois d'octobre est de 8,1°C (46,6°F).

Transport

AÉROPORT

L'aéroport Montréal-Trudeau est situé à seulement 20 km du centre-ville. L'enregistrement libre-service est disponible pour tous les vols, et il y a maintenant un accès Internet gratuit dans tout le terminal. Les informations de vol en temps réel sont fournies par message texte (SMS).

Swarming Emotional Pianos - Augmented Emotion in Real Time

16:45 – 17:00

Presenter / Présentatrice: Gee, Erin – Concordia University, Canada

Erin Gee, a Master of Fine Arts student at Concordia University, is collaborating with neurophysiologist Vaughan Macefield at the MARCS institute (University of Western Sydney, Australia) to create a robotic musical system that amplifies the physiological markers of emotion of wired performers in real time, through a mobile set of robotic chimes.

The process begins with inserting fine microelectrode needles into a peripheral nerve of a subject, recording nerve activity transmitted through a single neuron. This allows software systems to eavesdrop on the subject's emotions and gather data, by recording nerve activity transmitted through a single neuron. To build a more accurate emotional map, the sensors also record the subject's blood flow, heart rate, sweat release and respiration. On stage, the actors will be challenged to summon a broad range of feelings, sending their physiological signals into software that parlays the data into a chorus of chimes, bell, and light.

Through her research in robotics, neuroscience, data sonification, and the reception of patterned sound, Gee hopes to explore how emotional experiences might be communicated and received aesthetically without any artistry on the part of the performer other than the mere experience of emotion itself. She offers the project as an example of bringing together fields and researchers spanning multiple disciplines in the sciences and the arts, to foster new conversations and avenues of scholarship.

Global Pedagogy: Personalizing Digital Literacy
Pédagogie globale : personnaliser la culture numérique

16:15 – 17:15

Presenter / Présentatrice: Curell, Jessie – NFB/ONF, Canada

This National Film Board of Canada (NFB) session will facilitate a discussion surrounding the NFB's recent initiatives toward digital innovation, with a particular focus on its digital literacies. Participants will be introduced to the NFB Educational Playlist, Contemporary Voices: Films for Global Education: nfb.ca/playlists/global-issues. This playlist was created to help social studies educators, learners and researchers access and integrate documentary films about various global issues into their studies. We will use this playlist to discuss how Canadian-produced documentary films influence a pedagogical framework of "global citizenship."

In an effort to encourage a personalization of digital literacies across Canada, the NFB's education department recently launched its educational screening room, CAMPUS, featuring over 3,000 on-demand, classroom-ready films, pedagogical evaluations of NFB films and a wide variety of online learning modules, available in both English and French. We will discuss how CAMPUS has been used by educators across Canada and how it can be useful for global educators and researchers. This session will be framed as a working session, encouraging participant discussion and feedback.

Cette séance de l'Office national du film du Canada (ONF) stimule les échanges sur les récentes entreprises de l'ONF en matière d'innovation numérique, plus particulièrement sur ses projets favorisant la culture numérique. Les participants découvriront la sélection éducative de l'ONF Planète en vue : films sur les enjeux mondiaux. nfb.ca/playlists/global-issues. Cette sélection a été créée pour aider les enseignants, les apprenants et les chercheurs en étude sociales à accéder à des films abordant différents enjeux mondiaux et à les intégrer dans leurs études. Nous utiliserons cette sélection pour échanger sur la façon dont les documentaires canadiens favorisent une structure pédagogique axée sur la citoyenneté mondiale.*

Soucieux d'encourager la personnalisation de la culture numérique partout au Canada, le service Éducation de l'ONF a récemment lancé son espace de visionnage éducatif CAMPUS, lequel propose plus de 3000 films adaptés à l'enseignement en classe, des évaluations pédagogique de films de l'ONF et une grande variété de modules d'apprentissage en ligne, offerts sur demande, en français et en anglais. Nous échangerons sur les façons dont les éducateurs et éducatrices de partout au Canada ont exploité CAMPUS et comment ce portail peut être utile aux enseignants et aux chercheurs de par le monde. Cette séance sera structurée comme une séance de travail de manière à encourager les commentaires et les échanges entre participants.*

Digital Games, Social Science Research, and the Indie Game Movement

11:00 - 11:30

Speaker / Présentateur: Della Rocca, Jason - Execution Labs, Canada

Computer games are a global industry worth more than $64 billion annually, and a crucial engine of our digital economy. Canada is a world leader in this industry, with an estimated 20% of all games and game technologies in North America originating here. Games are a vital medium for entertainment, social commentary, and creative expression. Their impact extends far beyond entertainment and youth culture. Games are becoming an important component of education and training at all levels, bringing together experts in the social sciences, computing sciences, and fine arts. For example, educational games have transformed how medical staff train in medical ethics, cultural competencies, patient interviews and healthcare assessments.

The GRAND Network of Centres of Excellence (grand-nce.ca) is a focal point for innovative collaboration between industry and research expertise in gaming technologies at Canada's leading universities. Research on games examines key aspects of creating and testing machine intelligence technology, developing novel man-machine interfaces, improving training, facilitating group interactions and interdisciplinary collaborations, enabling political and social commentary, and promoting social change.

The Independent game movement (or Indie Games) provides a unique platform for developing new Intellectual Property that brings together interdisciplinary teams of creative and academic talent. The creation of a vibrant network of Indie developers, coupled with supportive research communities and robust incubation activities, diversifies the Canadian economy and promotes the development of small and medium enterprises.

Jason Della Rocca is a member of the GRAND Research Management Committee and a co-founder of Execution Labs, a game incubation studio in Montreal. He will discuss the challenges that face the Indie game movement in Canada and how on-going research in the Social Sciences can help ensure Canada's place as a world leader in game production.

Digital technologies are enormously powerful, for connecting people and information to one another and for effecting social change. The very same technologies have been used to orchestrate social transformations in different spheres of experience throughout the world, and at the same time have enabled states and corporations to keep track of people's online actions and interactions. What can social science offer not only to understanding these changes but also to facilitating collaboration and change between different social actors? Can collaboration emerge when configurations of hardware and software largely determine what happens next? Can technologies of communication be designed to foster participation and other societal benefits? What happens to solidarity and communalism when people rely on technologies that promise anonymity, though often reveal all sorts of private details to third parties? Why is it that media and politicians in the West enthusiastically support far-away 'Twitter' or 'Facebook' revolutions, but react with fear and self-censorship when others use the very same technologies to blow the whistle on abuses of state and corporate power closer to home? This opening plenary addresses these sorts of questions, drawing on a rich variety of experiences. The plenary brings together key thinkers, artists and activists who have all been involved in understanding what digital technologies mean for understanding and acting upon different facets of cultural, social, economic and political life. Thus, it sets the stage by raising a number of perspectives and challenges for participants to debate and discuss throughout the Forum.

Digitize, Democratize
Darnton, Robert - Harvard University, United States

The Era of the Tag
de Kerckhove, Derrick - University of Naples Federico II, Italy

What do digital technologies mean for the ways in which knowledge is codified, stored and distributed? Digital technologies offer enormous possibilities for the cheap and rapid distribution of knowledge leading many to think the world's accumulated knowledge is now available to all at the press of a button. But the reality is much more complex. There are practical questions about the availability of the physical infrastructure, legal questions about copyright and ownership of material, and education questions about the ability of people to make use of the knowledge they can find. This final plenary, to mark the end of the World Social Science Forum, brings together Robert Darnton (Harvard University, USA) and Derrick de Kerckhove (University of Naples Federico II, Italy), two of the world's leading intellectuals who have also concerned themselves with improving access to knowledge for people throughout the world, access unfettered by commercial and political interests. This plenary will be moderated by renowned CBC broadcaster and journalist Paul Kennedy.
